Dear Northern Great Lakes Synod,

The other day, right in the middle of a phone conversation, my office phone suddenly stopped working. I was incredibly irritated, and I yelled into my empty office how I felt about that phone. Several days later, I was snowshoeing, and my extendable walking pole contracted unexpectedly to about 14 inches, making it useless. Again, I found myself hurling verbal insults at an inanimate object. The snowy and peaceful silence of the wooded trail was shattered as I called my pole “stupid” and tried to forcibly manipulate it back to its appropriate length. But no matter how much I pulled and twisted and complained, it wouldn’t budge. Stupid thing.

With a vaccine being slowly rolled out, it feels like we should be in the homestretch of the pandemic. But the finish line seems to recede the closer we get. If you feel weary and irritable, with no patience for even the smallest inconvenience, you are not alone. We brace ourselves for the big things – loss and death, ongoing challenges to returning to what we miss, the need to be supportive to loved ones, but the little things...they can send us over the edge. Perhaps you too have experienced an adult temper tantrum over something that, pre-pandemic, would have been more manageable. These days, our skin is thinner and our emotions nearer the surface. Criticism that would have bounced off the armor of personal confidence now cuts deep. We have no reserve, no wherewithal, no room in a psyche already full to overflowing to cope rationally with one more thing.

In a presentation about what it takes to be resilient, I learned the number one thing was being realistic. So, let’s be realistic. This is hard.

We want to be done. We want to hug and sing and gather around the family table with loved ones we haven’t had supper with in over a year. All in good time. The day will come. We just need to wait a ...little...bit...longer. Some months at least.

So, we wait. We wait for our well to be filled, our strength to be renewed, our spirits to be refreshed. I have found that laughter helps...and play. But most of all, I have found that acknowledging the feelings of weariness, naming that I am tired of waiting, and then extending grace to myself and others, goes a long way to getting past it.

The prophet Isaiah has something to say about waiting.

*But those who wait for the Lord shall renew their strength, they shall mount up with wings like eagles,
they shall run and not be weary,
they shall walk and not faint. ~Isaiah 40:31*

Wait with me. Wait for the Lord. Wait for new life, for forward movement, for a fainting spirit to rise up on wings. God is with you, and God is at work; creating vaccines, supporting health care workers, helping leaders think through the details, and offering all of us the promise that with God’s help, our weariness will give way to new strength.

And in the meantime, find joy, in even the little things. It took two pliers, my husband, and a jar opener to get my pole back to its proper length. I’m ready for another snowshoe. If you hear someone yelling “stupid” in the woods, just ignore it.

Yours in Christ,
Bishop Katherine Finegan

PASTORAL MUSINGS FROM PR. BRENDA

Dear Church,

During my tenure as an Elementary School Music Teacher in Colorado, I became acquainted with the role of a Building Resource Teacher, or BRT as they were known. These teachers of teachers were go-to people: they were the ones who answered all of our silly questions as young teachers, they'd leave us notes of encouragement in our mailboxes, they'd point out ways to make our life easier as we learned the ropes of education. Each building had their own BRT, and each BRT was valued!

My BRT, Ann, was a force of positive energy. I didn't feel foolish asking her all of the things I'd missed during the staff meeting. She offered a listening ear, (a Kleenex, when needed) and helped us stay on course when it came to things both personal and professional. Along those lines, I will forever be indebted to her for teaching me the principle of POSITIVE PRESUPPOSITION. This was the strategy of presuming that the INTENT of the other person (be it a student, a colleague, or even a parent in the community) was indeed positive. Our BRT would coach us to practice thinking things through with a positive intent.

Example: Mr. Powers is late to the after-school meeting. I could choose to:

OR REACT with annoyance that a parent is extending my already long day.
RESPOND with the thought that perhaps Denver traffic was challenging enough, and he didn't deserve to be greeted by an ornery music teacher.

Supposing things from a POSITIVE angle doesn't eliminate the frustrations of life, but it does help you re-wire your brain to responding in a way that is welcoming, warm, and friendly. It allows our dialogue to CONTINUE, and works to keep judgment at bay. Having instructed children for 14 years, and interacted with thousands of children, parents, and families during my time in Colorado, I was able to practice the craft of supposing things from a POSITIVE perspective, shaping my mind, and ultimately my heart.

Fast-forward to my Seminary Internship in California, 2017: I'm teaching the children of the school (how blessed was I to have had an Internship at a Church + School?!) all about the 10 Commandments. We reach Martin Luther's explanation of the 8th Commandment, and BOOM! A lightbulb goes off in my brain: I've been practicing this commandment for close to 2 decades now. Read Luther's explanation:

The 8th Commandment: You shall not give false testimony against your neighbor.

What does this mean? We should fear and love God so that we do not tell lies about our neighbor, betray him, slander him, or hurt his reputation, but defend him, speak well of him, and explain everything in the kindest way.

The blessing of Luther's explanations to the 10 Commandments (*and the Creeds and the Prayers....all found in his Small Catechism) is that he offers an alternate behavior - a chance to get it right! Instead of just leaving us with the LAW and lists of DON'Ts, he gives an alternate list of Dos - a word of GOSPEL!

What I realized when teaching the children about the 8th Commandment is that it is the embodiment of Positive Presupposition - presuming the INTENT of the other person is indeed POSITIVE. We are ALL so quick (and I'm definitely including myself in this) to presume the worst outcome or the most dramatic reason for so many SIMPLE things in our lives, when we would find ourselves to be MUCH happier approaching our everyday situations with the heart of the 8th Commandment in mind.

I was originally taught that this Commandment was instructing us not to lie - but in fact, our instructions spread so much wider and that much deeper than simple fibs and lies. We are to DEFEND our neighbors, speaking up for them when they are not there to speak up for themselves. We are to explain things in a way that is KIND...not in ways that are juicy or scandalous or somehow make ourselves look better or brighter.

I've heard the explanation of the 8th commandment also stated this way: "excuse him, speak well of him, and put the best construction on everything." Again, as followers of a man who put the first last and the last first, we are called upon to excuse others, even construct meaning that defends the others, ALL out of a loving response to God. NOT always the easiest thing to do, especially when we have repeat offenders in our lives - people who continually disappoint us and frustrate us.

Now, I'm NOT looking for some Pollyanna-like existence here. But, as we continue through Lent, I'd challenge each one of us to hold the principle of the 8th Commandment in our hearts: Go forth with positive presuppositions about those whom we encounter, and respond to them in the most loving and well-spoken ways possible.
